Top five most significant judging experiences:

- Being asked by your respected peers to judge shows
- Judging the Troy Fair youth show with my sister, the fair we grew up attending
- Cornish Fair had over 100 youth in the showmanship contest
- Asked to judge the PA Farm Show for a second time

In addition to judging conformation classes, this judge also enjoys:

- Youth Shows
- Showmanship

David has been working with high quality Holsteins his entire life. He grew up in Troy, Pennsylvania on his family dairy farm, Pack-Herd Holsteins. David went on to attend Penn State University and graduated in 2001. Within the agricultural industry, he has focused primarily on genetics having been a manager at Arethusa Farm in Litchfield, Connecticut from 2004-2010, was a sales representative for Semex USA from 2010-2015, and has since served as the Business Development Manager for the Eastern Region of Semex USA. David and his wife live in Painted Post, New York and own cattle that are housed in Pennsylvania. He has judged numerous shows at the county, district, and state levels across New York, and Pennsylvania.
